

PRD 2017 Pre-Event Programming (1 of 2)

Revising your research summary	Awesomize Your Abstract Thursday, April 13, 2017, 4:30 p.m. - 5:30 p.m. The Writing Room, Lauritzen Hall, Whitman College Sign up: https://wriapps.princeton.edu/signup/s/373 Looking to refine your Princeton Research Day abstract? Everyone knows that abstracts should be short, but what other characteristics matter? In this workshop, we examine abstracts from a variety of disciplines to discover the elements that make an abstract effective. Participants then use the elements to analyze and revise their own abstracts.

Presenting a poster or exhibit	Poster Design for Researchers in the Humanities and Qualitative Social Sciences Tuesday, April 18, 2017, 4:30 p.m. - 6:00 p.m. The Writing Room, Lauritzen Hall, Whitman College Sign up: https://wriapps.princeton.edu/signup/s/375 Posters are a familiar genre for scientists and researchers in quantitative fields, but may feel like foreign territory for scholars in other disciplines. Calling all humanists and qualitative social scientists! Come learn how valuable posters can be as a tool to communicate your research. We'll focus on how to create a design that translates often text-intensive projects into visually effective, clear and succinct presentations of your argument. Bring your questions, ideas, rough sketches—whatever you have at this stage in your process—and the Writing Center's Independent Work Mentors will happily advise you!
	Poster Design for Quantitative Researchers Tuesday, April 18, 2017, 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Frist 309 Sign up: https://wriapps.princeton.edu/signup/s/387 Want to put together a compelling, clear, and visually effective poster presentation? Join us for a poster workshop for STEM and quantitative researchers led by McGraw Center fellows. Learn technical expertise and best practices for organizing the flow of information and for choosing the right words and illustrations. Learn about how you can use your poster as a tool in the verbal presentation of your research. The workshops will include time to run your ideas and drafts by our poster experts.
